

DS4A / Colombia: Project Deliverables

The Practicum Project is due on the last day of class, December 19. During the last week of DS4A, participants will work to complete their Final Projects. Your TAs will walk you through the details, but this document serves as a reference.

Your Deliverables

There are four key deliverables:

- Project Report: your main technical write-up, which you have been working on week by week.
- Codebase: the codebase for your application and any code or notebooks created for analysis done for your project.
- DataFolio: a 1-page summary of your Project Report, following Correlation One's template.
- Presentation: a 5-minute video recording of your group presenting your project

Each team should submit their deliverables on the “Submissions” page of the course website.
Only one person per team needs to make the submission.

More details on your Presentation and DataFolio are below. The due-dates for the deliverables are below:

Deliverable	Due Date
Project Report	December 19 11:59 PM
Codebase	December 19 11:59 PM
Presentation	December 19 11:59 PM
DataFolio	December 19 11:59 PM

Project Report

You will continue working on the report that you have already started building.

Codebase

You will submit the codebase you have developed for your project application.

DataFolio

The DataFolio is a concise one-page summary of your work. We at Correlation One developed this DataFolio format based on what employers want to see. Your DataFolio will be the main collateral you share on your LinkedIn profile summarizing your Final Project for DS4A.

For additional details on the DataFolio format and examples, please see [\[here\]](#).

Presentation

Your presentation is a 5-minute video recording of your team walking through your project. Like all presentations, it is important to discuss why you chose to analyze the problem the way you did.
